Disability Homestead Exemption: Information and Requirements

In Texas, a disabled adult has a right to a special homestead exemption. If you qualify, this exemption can reduce your taxes. By law, school districts must provide a $10,000 disability exemption. Other taxing entities have the option to offer disability exemptions. If you qualify, you will receive this exemption in addition to the general homestead exemption. However, you cannot receive both a disability exemption and an over-65 exemption.

Who is a disabled person for the purpose of this exemption?

The Texas Property Tax Code provides that you are entitled to the exemption if you meet the Social Security Administration's tests for disability. In simplest terms:

- 1) You must have a medically determinable physical or mental impairment;
- 2) The impairment must prevent you from engaging in any substantial gainful activity; and
- 3) The impairment must be expected to last for at least 12 continuous months or to result in death.

Do I have to be receiving disability benefits to qualify?

You do not have to be receiving disability benefits, but you must meet the definition of disabled given above. If you receive disability benefits under the Federal Old Age, Survivors, and Disability Insurance Program through the Social Security Administration you will automatically qualify. Disability benefits from any other program do not automatically qualify you for this exemption.

How do I claim the exemption?

To claim the exemption, you must complete a Residence Homestead Exemption application with the appraisal district, provide documentation of your disability and provide any other applicable information. Be especially certain to mark the box that recognizes your claim for the disability. You must provide medical documents verifying that you meet the definition of disability given above. The most common reason for denial of this exemption is failure to include adequate documentation.

What kind of documents should I include?

The best form of documentation, if you are receiving Social Security Disability, is a copy of your disability determination letter issued by the Social Security Administration. If you are not receiving Social Security Disability, then have your physician complete and return the Physician Statement Form or attach information from a recognized retirement system verifying your permanent disability. It is very important that if you are submitting the Verification of Disability form, your physician must mail it to the appraisal district. This form will not be accepted if simply attached to your application.

Where do I file my application?

You can complete an online application by visiting our website at www.wcad.org, locate your property through the Property Search and select the HS Exemption icon.

Action on your application usually will occur within four to six weeks from the date it is received. In the event the appraisal district disagrees with your request, you will be notified and offered an opportunity to protest this decision.
